New inhaler testing brochure from Copley Scientific

'Quality solutions for inhaler testing – 2007 Edition', Copley Scientific's new brochure, is now available. Copley Scientific is one of the world's leading suppliers of inhaler test equipment with unrivalled experience in the field and a product offering unsurpassed in terms of quality and breadth. The new brochure includes details of the company's equipment for testing metered dose and dry powder inhalers, nebulisers and nasal sprays. Visit www.copleyscientific.com to download or request the brochure, or contact the company on +44 (0) 115 961 6229.

A distillation of the company's extensive knowledge base, Copley Scientific's regularly updated brochure is highly regarded by those charged with developing and implementing test programmes. It takes the user step-by-step through the procedures outlined in the US and European Pharmacopoeias, explaining relevant background theory and highlighting critical aspects of the analysis. Details of products recently released by the company to improve the reproducibility and productivity of testing are included.
